ROOM AT THE TOP

THE ambitious youth who wants to reach the top should ponder the ten qualifications listed by Dr. Walter B. Pitkin, as follows:

1. Health.
2. High energy.
3. Persistence.
4. Thoroughness.
5. High technical training.
6. Social sense the ability to get along well with people.
7. Self-knowledge, and self-understanding.
8. Adaptability.
9. Willingness to work for a long time at jobs requiring less than one's best abilities.
10. A knowledge of local affairs and wide acquaintanceship with local people.

Continuing Dr. Pitkin says: "It's important even though not pleasant, to know that, in terms of mere numbers alone, every young worker who has arrived at working age since 1920 would be superfluous in our existing economic system if everybody were to use the latest and best inventions and improvements. We have heard much of the youth problem—and it is a big problem, one that reaches round the world. Gratifying, however, is the intelligent interest business and professional men are taking not only in counseling youth but in actively helping them make adjustments.

The problem of the unemployed worries governments but not as much as the problem of the unemployed worry the unemployed.

Advertising in 1936 will be the same aid to smart merchants that it has been for the past few decades.

A METHODIST MERGER

THREE large groups of Methodists in this country have agreed to consider a proposed merger into one general church, which would constitute the third largest religious unit in the nation, containing membership of over seven million people.

The original Methodist unity was broken in 1930 when the Methodist Protestants differed on the question of lay representation. About 1844, another schism occurred over the subject of slavery. The two issues which divided the church into three separate branches have been disposed of in the course of years and unification would seem now to be possible.

It is expected that five years will pass before the plan can be acted upon by the three groups and their local churches. Under the proposal church government and administration will continue to be episcopal, the ranking executive body will be a general-conference held once in Quadrennium, half of the members of which will be laymen, and below this will be lesser conferences for districts and various localities.

Confidentially, the year is rather young, but you can pay your subscription any day you please.

Our own hope for 1936 is that The Sea Coast Echo will be better than ever and win new friends.

NEW LEGISLATURE MEETS TUESDAY

THE new legislature will assemble next Tuesday to begin its biennial session. It is the first part of the new administration to begin functioning. The senate will be called to order by Lieutenant Governor Dennis Murphree and will proceed to organization after new senators are sworn in electing a president pro tem, secretary and assistants, a sergeant-at-arms and doorkeepers. The house will be called to order by Secretary of State Walker Wood who will administer the oath to the new members. When that is done the house proceeds to the election of a speaker, a clerk, sergeant-at-arms and doorkeepers. When both houses have completed organization details, they meet in joint session to elect a postmaster and a state librarian.

The stock market is beginning to go upward with a regularity that invites the suckers to try it again.

Talk to some people about making a contribution to a charity cause and they look at you like you were suggesting taking poison.

TAX-REDUCTION MEASURES

TWO tax reduction measures enacted by the recent extraordinary session of the legislature are now in effect, having become laws by legislative direction after December 31. They are the personal property exemption act and the downward revision of the privilege tax code. The former act removes from the assessment rolls a long list of personal property items which were actually costing the state more money than it received from the tax on the items. Approximately 450 items of personal property are affected by the exemptions, which takes only a pittance from the state's gross revenue but cuts sharply into the tax revenues of the counties.

POWER OF OIL

IT is said that one of the reasons the British and French governments tried to patch up a peace between Italy and Ethiopia was that they were convinced that the restriction of oil shipments to Italy would be so harmful to the latter country that it would risk attacking the British fleet in the Mediterranean.

Italy has to import her oil supply. Not to be able to secure oil would mean that her Ethiopian campaign would be entirely blocked. Ships, tanks, airplanes and supply trucks all require gasoline and oil to operate. Without the supply of this essential liquid Italy would not be able to carry on a warfare with modern implements.

Japan is very much in the same situation that Italy is. Her greatest military weakness is the poor national supply of oil. Not long ago the Japanese passed a law requiring all foreign companies doing business to erect and store a year's supply of oil, thus creating a military reserve without any expense. Japan must have oil for her industry and her fleets.

The annual Japanese consumption is around two million tons and one-half of this is brought in from the United States. Three countries could, if they desired to, prevent Japan from securing this necessary supply. The British could stop their oil shipments and prevent imports from the Dutch East Indies. If the United States shut off the supply, the only other country necessary would be Russia, which is Japan's rival in Eastern Asia. So, should the United States and Great Britain decide to oppose Japanese ambitions, an oil embargo would follow.

Seeing the vital importance of oil and gasoline, it would seem that countries like Italy and Japan would seek to develop substitute fuels, particularly, encouraging the use of alcohol. As long as they are dependent upon imports of oil a coalition of the oil producing countries can control their future.

THE TOWNSEND PLAN

THERE are many, particularly those over sixty years of age, who are warmly advocating the adoption of the Townsend plan, which provides for the payment to all citizens over sixty years of age two hundred dollars a month on the condition that it be spent within thirty days after its receipt.

The advocates of the Townsend plan think it would be a tremendous boon to business because if the increased demand for goods caused by the spending of so much money. They do not seem to be discouraged by the fact that it would require a hitherto undreamed of amount of money from taxes in order to pay it. In a comparatively small state the requirement would be nearly forty million dollars a year.

The Townsend group is planning to enter national politics and the founder of the idea says that the only two planks in his platform will be the promise to pay the two hundred dollars and the means of raising it by a transactions tax, or a turn-over levy. The Townsends are planning to poll the members of the Federal House of Representatives and the reports are that the politicians are worried.

One practical politician has suggested, perhaps humorously, that the only way to beat the Townsend plan was to attract more voters by a different method, namely offering one hundred dollars a month to everybody over fifty years of age, or whatever age required to enlist a superior number of votes.

Anybody who has the idea that all the persons receiving relief from the government are going to vote for President Roosevelt has another guess coming.

NEW YEAR, 1936

(To The Sea Coast Echo)

I THANK the Lord for Nineteen-Thirty-Six. I thank the Lord for merry heart to mix With multitudes of other happy hearts, With steady souls to play their destined parts.

I have not time to waste in idle tears For evil deeds I did in other years. I have no will to squander in regret For milk I spilled—there's milk plenty yet.

I wish, of course, my record had been right. I wish, of course, I'd fought a nobler fight; But with the past a tarnished, blackened sheet, I turn my back upon it, and I greet

A future full of challenge, full of cheer. I greet with gratitude another year. I may not mend the errors of my ways. I may not mend the deeds of yesterdays.

The race I run may win no wreath for me. The life I live, a barren stretch may be. A year from now, though I be quick or dead, It may not matter what I did or said.

We go our way. Few heed us as we pass. Our little lives are less than garnered grass. We pay our tribute to our empty dreams. We sigh and sigh, like sighing, singing streams.

Some few may thrill to finer aims and hopes. Some few may climb to sweet, sublimer slopes. But most of us, such souls as you and I, Can never rise to peaks that tower high.

But even you and I along the way May make life break to blossom day by day. Can set a song to singing in some heart. Can play, at least, a kindly, humble part.

And maybe, after all, the life we live More solid inspiration yet may give Than those who move majestically along, Too proud to mingle with the motley throng.

I thank the Lord for Nineteen-Thirty-Six. I thank the Lord for blessedness to mix Among my common brothers in the crowd God keep me, honest, humble, but unbowed.

—DAVID E. GUYTON.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING OF MEN AND MATTERS IN EDITORIAL EXPRESSION

DOING WITHOUT A RAILROAD

(West Point Times-Leader)

FIFTEEN months ago a railroad abandoned its branch line between Sioux City, Iowa, and Wynot, Nebraska, a distance of about 50 miles. The abandonment was made necessary by truck competition, which had caused the railroad to carry on operations on the branch line at a substantial loss for some time.

The trucking concerns serving the area assured interested townspeople and farmers that they could entirely fill any transportation need. This claim was taken into consideration by the Interstate Commerce Commission in permitting the abandonment.

Here, according to the Minneapolis Grain and Feed Review are some of the results:

First, grain shipped from the affected area to Sioux City, thence to be sent east, was carried by railroad at 3 cents a bushel. Today the rate is 10 cents a bushel.

In the days of the railroad, coal was laid down in the farthest town on the branch line for 20 cents a ton. Today the truck rate to close-in points is $2.00 a ton.

Real estate values in the railroadless area are at new lows. Town homes that cost $4,000 cannot find buyers at $500. Farm values have dropped from 50 to 75 per cent.

The branch line railroad paid

MAYOR WATTS ORDERS OFFICERS TO KEEP TRANSIENTS ON MOVE

(Pascagoula Democrat-Star)

MAYOR John R. Watts has issued orders to the police department of the city to keep the ever-increasing stream of transients on the move and to discourage "tin can" tourists from stopping in the city. The Mayor pointed out that large numbers of campers who depended on begging from local citizens to get by caused a problem in sanitation, and said that Pascagoula had enough people of her own to take care of without having to provide for those from other places.

Panhandling, robberies and annoyance generally have resulted from the influx of the transients, who manage to get here each year about this time. An incident was told last week of a lady who went into the depot early one morning to wait for a train, and who found it so crowded with men hanging around that she waited out in the cold for her train.

$28,000 each year in taxes to local units of government. That sum has now been shifted to the remaining taxpayers.

This is no argument against trucks, in their proper field. It simply illustrates the fact that those who think an area can "get along without a railroad," don't know what they're talking about.

Joe Penner's duck now has a companion. A friend sent him a parrot.

For those who think Shirley Temple is just a well trained little actress and is not very smart, her rating in the Pitkin-Cunningham test will come as a surprise. The normal quotient is 100 and 1935 is considered that of a genius but Shirley came through with a score of 155.

IT'S TRUE!

By Wiley Padan

New York, N. Y., "IT'S TRUE!" that Ronald Colman told a magazine interviewer in 1928 that he believed the finest possible role for talking pictures was that of Sydney Carton in "A Tale of Two Cities," and that he hoped some day to play it," says Wiley Padan. "Now, after seven years, he plays that very role for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer!"

The Yellow Pine Tree

It is said that the packers use everything in the hog but the squeal in the packing process.

They are doing that with the old pine tree, now.

Hon. J. M. Mallory of Savannah, a close student of the development of uses of Southern Pine in conjunction with Dr. Charles Herty, pending the holidays in Columbus, tells of a process which utilizes the last thing of the pine tree—the bark.

Pine bark is being ground and manufactured into flooring and other composition products.

This takes everything the pine tree produces.

The tree itself is being used to manufacture paper both white and kraft and rayon.

The pine tree cuttings are used in Laurel to manufacture masonite.

The stump is used in the manufacture of naval stores.

The pine needles are now being used in the production of felt in a new plant at Hattiesburg.

Now a process has been perfected to use the bark of the tree.

Truly the old pine tree is being glorified.

Eventually it will come to be the South's greatest money crop.—Columbus Commercial Dispatch.

Pine Business Booms; Voiding of NRA Big Factor

In his year-end review of the Southern pine business, H. C. Berckes, secretary-manager of the Southern Pine Association, asserted that 1935 had shown "fairly large gains" in production, volume of orders and shipments over 1934.

This resulted, he said, in employment of men at increased individual salaries during the year, particularly since abandonment of the NRA lumber code.

He said available statistics indicate that the industry was employing about 12,000 more men than a year ago and that pay checks at the Southern mills had been increased about a million dollars a month since the "hampering" influence of the code was removed. Labor discord has been notably absent, he said.

ALL members of Congress have been circled by the Townsends to ascertain their attitude in regard to a bill embodying the plan.

WINTER

(To The Sea Coast Echo)

Now Winter reigns supreme, By hill and lake; The witness of a dream, The snow doth make.

His court is awful still, As trees bend down; The shadows pictures spill, Upon an icy crown.

Afrightened, trembling deer, Now stops to drink; Ice cracking makes him fear While pausing on the brink.

A wild duck cries on air, Flapping its wings; To-morrow cild and fair, He madly sings.

All snow and ice and mist, Above, below; Paint skies of amethyst, A sunbeam throw.

Then night so pale and cold, Sinks in his arms; Spirits all dark and bold, In tangled forms.

Sleep winter, soundly sleep; Waken not now; To-morrow her trust will keep, Sealing her vow.

—RICHARD J. LINCOLN.

"MUTINY ON THE BOUNTY" STANDS FOR BEST OF KIND FILMED

Laughton and Gable Are Superb in Parts—Supported by Excellent Cast

Mutiny on the Bounty. Four words that point in the minds of every lover of the sea adventure vivid pictures of life on the bounding main, the whine of a boat's "cat" on a seaman's back, the crackle of billowed sails, paradise in the South Seas, hardships, the stern arm of the law of the sea—but above all Adventure.

"Mutiny on the Bounty," which opens at the A. & G. Theater, Sunday and Monday cannot be compared to any other film achievement. It stands alone and far above anything of its kind that has ever been filmed or which may be filmed for years to come.

Resulted in Reform

It is a sea drama as it actually took place a hundred and fifty years ago, a true chapter from maritime history that resulted in a great reform among all ships of the sea and which eliminated for all time the brutal treatment men who go to sea expected and suffered.

"Mutiny on the Bounty," has been faithfully reproduced from the sensational book by James Norman Hall and Charles Nordhoff, in so far as the medium of motion pictures permit. It tells the story as Hall and Nordhoff told it.

The little square-rigger, H. M. S. Bounty, sails for the South Seas on a scientific mission to transplant breadfruit to the West Indies. Her crew is a motley one of convicts and bewildered wretches, "pressed" into service. Her skipper is tyrannical Captain Bligh who knows only one law—the merciless law of the sea and an almost fanatical loyalty to the navy and the crown.

Captain Bligh is relieved in "Mutiny on the Bounty" by Charles Laughton who makes of the character a ruthless and harsh disciplinarian. In truth, it is the greatest performance Laughton has ever contributed to the screen.

Gable's Greatest Role

Fletcher Christian, the Master's Mate, comes to us in Clark Gable's finest role. Those throughout the world who have read the book will agree that Gable as Christian, leader of the mutineers, could not have been a better choice.

Quickly the true story of the Bounty progresses—a grumbling crew lashed by interminable storms that lengthened the voyage; living on scant and rotten rations because the captain took the better food; a snarling Captain Bligh raging incessantly at his embittered crew; floggings, death and that followed when H. M. S. Bounty reaches Tahiti; the soothing influence of native women, fresh food and happiness.

As quickly it unfolds the start of the return voyage, with Bligh's tyranny driving his men to mutiny, to put him over the side in an open boat.

Adventure after adventure follows the mutiny which has no parallel in naval history—the dogged pursuit of the mutineers years later, the capture of some and their finish on the gallows, the escape of others to Pitcairn Island, where 200 of their descendants live to this day.

Cast Is Impressive

"Mutiny on the Bounty" is a he-man's picture, but a he-man's picture that women, as well, will thrill over. Space forbids the praise deserved by the huge cast. Franchot Tone, as Byam; Dudley Digges, as Bacchus; Herbert Mundin, Donald Crisp, Eddie Quillan, Stanley Fields, Ian Wolfe, Ivan Simpson, DeWitt Jennings, even Mamo and Maria, the native girls, and the fifty more who make up the impressive cast.

Director Frank Lloyd, who will be remembered for his "Cavalcade," has reached the pinnacle of his fame by his direction of "Mutiny on the Bounty."

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical—only twenty-five cents for the far package—ten cents for the package. (Adv)

Opening of Shortcut Route Brings Forth Many Reminiscences

ox teams. The road is gummy in parts. Dr. Strong advised those who attempt the trip to equip the machine with block tackle, spade, and chains. He claims that these things are absolutely necessary.
And turning back the pages of his memory, Dr. Strong now recalled that they spent three nights on the road. The first night spent beside a Pearl river swamp mudhole in which the Buick had become mired; the second in Hammond, and the third in a sugar house at Burnside.
He remembers that when they stopped at a Tangipahoa farm house to ask directions, a shotgun was poked out of the door at them. Ben Critchen, the desperado, was at large in the parish at that time and the country folks were taking no chances with strangers.

Dr. Strong admits that his old Buick was panting when it attained the dizzy gate of 30 miles an hour. So when he makes his first trip over the new Rigolots-Pearlington hard-surfaced shirt cut to the Gulf Coast in a modern automobile, capable of 80 miles an hour without a murmur of protest from the motor, and remembers the trip he made over the muddy roundabout route of 25 years ago, Dr. Strong is to be envied.

He can appreciate the progress made in automobiles and in road building and recognizes the fact that during the last decade a half America has been growing sanely, sensibly and with purpose.

FUNERAL SERVICE FOR MAJOR J. T. BUDDECKE JAS. J. BOYLE, VICTIM CHRISTMAS COLLISION AT NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Was Buried at E. Providence, R. I.—Mrs. Boyle Shows Marked Improvement

The funeral of the late James J. Boyle, who was killed in an automobile accident Christmas night, was held at the home of Mrs. Boyle's sister, Mrs. Frederick C. Hancock, 43 Vine Street, East Providence, R. I., on Monday, December 30.

A solemn high mass of requiem was sung at the church of the Sacred Heart.

Mr. Boyle's body arrived at Providence from Gulfport, Miss., at 3 P. M. Saturday, and was received by sorrowing relatives and friends, and was then placed in a solid mahogany casket.

Nearly one hundred floral pieces were received, including several from friends in Gulfport, from Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Crane, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Hurd, Mississippi Power Company, Gulfport Elks, and Gulfport Rotary Club. Telephone and telephone calls poured in constantly since word of the tragedy was first received in Rhode Island, expressing sympathy and inquiring for a report on Mrs. Boyle's condition.

The Providence Elks attended the services in a body and conducted a very impressive ritual. The church was occupied to capacity with friends of Mr. Boyle, who was very highly regarded in Rhode Island and New York.

The funeral was attended by friends from Boston, Taunton, Woonsocket, Newport, Utica and Rochester.

Mrs. Boyle is still at the Emergency Hospital, Bay St. Louis where her niece, Miss Ethel Hancock, of Rhode Island, is constantly at her bedside.

Her condition is regarded as improving, although she has not been able to see visitors yet. She appreciates her friends inquiries, however, and will be very glad when her physician will permit her to receive callers.

Funeral for R. F. Young, who was killed in the same accident, was held at Gulfport, Miss., with interment at cemetery at that place.

Mrs. Young, whose life was practically spared, has regained consciousness. That is all that can be safely said as to her condition. However, she seems to have a chance.

BILOXI SUBURBAN PRIEST ENTERTAINS AT DINNER

Rev. Father Dennis O'Sullivan of D'Iberville, near Biloxi, entertained Thursday with a dinner in honor of his 58th birthday. His guests were 11 Coast priests who were Father Mulrooney, Father Hillebrand, Father McGlade and Father Quinn of Biloxi; Father Omech and Father Fahey, Bay St. Louis; Father Joseph Ellis, Ocean Springs; Father Joseph Holland, Mississippi City; Father Dennis, Kilm and Father Michael Tierman, Bassfield.

—Considerable building and improvement continues in and around Bay St. Louis, not omitting Waveland. In this line just now two extensive heating systems are being installed in a Waveland and a Bay St. Louis dwelling. The first is for Mr. Fortune Jaubert, whose comfortable home where he and family spend the summer and are making the place equally as comfortable for winter visits. The second is for Mr. John W. Bryan, whose handsome home is located on the beach at Cedar Point. Both systems are of the No-Kol type.

—Patrons of A. & G. Theater enjoyed an added comfort Monday night when the new steam heating system was turned on for the first time and every evening since. A. Benvenuto, Bay Plumbing Company, installed the system and personally supervises it every evening until final and proper adjustment will have been made. The system previously used, hot water type, was not of sufficient force to properly heat the large interior. Miss Ames and Mrs. Gaspard spare no effort and cost in the interest of their patrons and the public generally.

—Mrs. H. P. Burbank and young sons returned home during the early part of the week from New Orleans, where they enjoyed the Christmas holidays. The young gentlemen will resume their studies at St. Stanislaus Monday.

—Mark Carmichael, young attaché of The Echo office and plant, returned home Monday from a stay of several days in New Orleans, where he spent Christmas holidays, visiting at the home of his young friend, Albert Birmingham, who resides with his parents in S. Carrollton avenue.

—Miss Marie E. Bertrand, who underwent a major operation at Mercy Hospital, New Orleans, the day after Christmas, is reported rapidly recovering and in the future will be on the high road to recovery. The ordeal was quite a serious one and how the patient rallied and passed the crisis is remarkable. It was stated at the hospital.

The many Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian and Gulf Coast friends who were so pleased to see her when she returned home, as well as those who were so kind to send her money for food and carried them as far as Ocean Springs. They had been soaking wet over night and part of the day.

Friend and Booster of Bay St. Louis—Former Public Official and Newspaper Man

Major Joseph T. Buddecke, native of New Orleans, aged 63 years, died at Mercy Hospital in that city last Friday and was buried from St. Patrick's church to St. Louis cemetery Sunday morning. His death followed an illness extending over a number of years.

Major Buddecke was well-known in Bay St. Louis, spending many a summer here and at one time a resident. He was an ardent booster for this section and never failed when an opportunity presented itself, to boost the Gulf Coast, particularly Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

He was a nephew of the late Mayor Capdeville of the city of New Orleans and served as his official secretary. Later when Mr. Capdeville became State auditor he also served in official capacity for the State and at one time was a member of the governor's staff, ranking as major.

Essentially a society man, he was connected with all of the large Carnival associations, and for over a period of thirty years was an executive of the Comus organization.

He was well and popularly known as a newspaper man, possessed of literary ability and with a keen sense for news and feature writing. For many years he was connected with the French daily newspaper, "The Bee," and later years published his own monthly, "Society Talk," with headquarters in fashionable centers of the country.

He is survived by a son, George Buddecke, assistant to the federal housing administrator, at New Orleans, and who served on The Echo staff in special work.

Major Buddecke's passing away is a matter of keen regret. He was a man of varied attainments, exceedingly popular and his cordial and polished manner ever won for him many friends.

Passing Away of Walter W. Martin

The recent death of Walter W. Martin at his home in New Orleans is noted with regret and general sorrow is expressed by friends of two states.

Mr. Martin was a summer resident of Bay St. Louis and more lately of Waveland, with his father-in-law, Mr. Piper, and family.

Mr. Martin was popularly known and counted his friends by the score. He is survived by his wife and other relatives.

Although the deceased had undergone more major operations during the past twelve or fifteen years than any average man who had gone under the knife, he was generally well, regaining health after each of the many surgical experiences, and his death came suddenly and occasioned surprise.

ALPHONSO ESTAPA DIES

Gulfport, Miss., Jan. 1.—Alfonso Estapa, 64 years old, died at his home here Tuesday night. He was born in Bay St. Louis, but had been a resident of Gulfport for many years. for the Christmas season. This venerable resident of Waveland, who is beloved by all who know her for her cheery disposition, loveliness of character and her love and devotion to her friends, left during the fall to spend the winter at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Forcelle, Jr., not feeling well and at the solicitation of her daughter against Mrs. Daughton's fondness for Waveland as a place of residence. Her daughter won over Waveland and the trip and visit followed. However, later in the season she did not do well and became seriously ill, her recovery practically hopeless. But the unceasing care and attention of her loved ones, and professional ministrations, the advent of the bright and happy Christmas season brought new hope and finally the patient has returned from her seemingly approach to the shadows. Her recovery is said to be marvelous.

Although well advanced in years, Mrs. Daughton has much to live for since she is ever a genial spirit and her cordial manner always a source of pleasure to those who have the privilege of basking in the sunshine of the warmth of heart and enjoy her interesting personality. She is missed in Waveland, where she loves to reside, and sends a message of cheer to one and all for a happy New Year. We, her friends, too, send New Year greetings and wishes for more years of that happiness she so benignantly radiates.

Among the delightful informal hospitalities of the holiday season was a dinner party at which Mr. and Mrs. Richard McCarthy, Jr., were hosts Monday evening. They entertained at the family home on St. Charles avenue, complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lowenstein of Chicago, who arrived Saturday last, for a week's visit here. The guests included members of the married set.

The Christmas mail brought to Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Elliott, residing in Union street, an interesting envelope and contents from Rome, Italy. The Reverend John C. Fourie, ordained to the sacred priesthood, at Rome, December eighth, sent his blessing on the eventful day. In addition to the artistic and formal folder, the enclosures were holy pictures, appropriately inscribed, as souvenirs of the ordination.
